

Reducing Student Conflict And Violent Behavior

“RESPONSIBILITY, RESPECT AND RELATIONSHIPS:

Creating Emotionally Safe Classrooms”

3 Semester Hours of Graduate Credit

- Featuring engaging and entertaining presentations by Dr. Jane Bluestein, author of Creating Emotionally Safe Schools.
- Learn why emotional safety is essential for learning to take place.
- Discover how responsibility, respect and relationships work together in a safe, productive classroom.

With Dr. Bluestein you will learn how to:

- Help students deal with the world events that may be threatening their emotional safety.
- Create an emotional safety net to support troubled students before they become dangerous students.
- Deal with protective behaviors that result from a lack of emotional safety: withdrawing, acting out, and resorting to violence.
- Provide a learning environment in which students feel safe and secure enough to take the risks associated with learning.
- Recognize and respond effectively to students who are experiencing emotional crises.
- Utilize a supportive process for helping students who feel hurt or upset.
- Prevent discipline problems that can result from students' feelings of fear and anxiety.

Special Bonus

“The Lessons of Littleton”

The course also includes two videos by Dr. William Glasser about preventing violence in schools.
